Opening new doors to your digital collections

Original cataloging of digital collections is a labor-intensive process. This is why we developed Specto: an AI-powered digital collection platform that speeds up the metadata creation process to let librarians focus on sharing their collections' stories.

Specto equips staff with an AI Metadata Assistant to generate descriptive metadata, identify key entities, and link related materials. It also offers immersive discovery journeys that guide users through the collections with tools such as online exhibitions, delivery pages, an AI Research Assistant and more.

See how Specto for special collections opens doors to your digital collections →

Management process

The library holds a collection with various types of materials

The AI Metadata Assistant generates descriptive metadata, extracts entities such as persons or buildings, and links related materials. Specto allows subject-matter experts to tag entities and update metadata in bulk.

Doyle Hickey
Eisenhower, Dwight D.
Truman, Harry S.

President Truman with Generals Eisenhower and Hickey during WWII

Description:
This historical photograph captures a moment from World War II featuring three prominent figures. President Harry S. Truman is seen conversing with General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Doyle Hickey. The image, set against a backdrop of trees and military vehicles, likely depicts a significant meeting or inspection during the war. The photograph reflects the close collaboration and leadership crucial to the Allied war effort.

Subjects:
- United States. Army--Officers
- World War, 1939-1945--Military personnel
- Politicians--United States
- Format: image/jpeg

Dear Mr. President:

Mr. Churchill

Assistance with the Formosa Situation and Public Support

Description:
A letter from Congressman Walter H. Judd to the President offering assistance with the Asia (Formosa) situation, addressing misrepresentations by the press, and suggesting public support strategies. Judd references his own experience in the Far East and includes a sample of his answers to questions in an NBC interview. He also mentions an enclosed copy of a letter to Sir Winston Churchill discussing Britain's historical stance on similar issues.

Names:
- Judd, Walter H. (Sender)
- Churchill, Winston (Referenced)
- Dwight D. Eisenhower (Recipient)

Organization:
Congress of the United States

City:
Washington, D.C. (Location of sender)

End-user journey

Users explore the collection through an engaging interface created with the Exhibition Builder

ExLibris Part of Clarivate | Specto

A visual retrospective of Eisenhower's career
From military command to presidency

February, 1944
Supreme Command

July 26, 1945
World War II President Harry Truman, talking with General Dwight Eisenhower and General Doyle Hickey in Germany

BACK 'EM UP!
BUY EXTRA BONDS

1952
"I Like Ike" presidential election campaign commercial

March 12, 1955
A letter from Walter H. Judd offering assistance with the Asia (Formosa) situation

ExLibris Part of Clarivate | Specto

President Truman with Generals Eisenhower and Hickey during WWII
This historical photograph captures a moment from World War II featuring three prominent figures. President Harry S. Truman is seen conversing with General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Doyle Hickey.

Users access detailed information on specific items and navigate to related materials

Continue exploring Specto here →

Implement Specto for special collections at your library.

→ Contact your Clarivate account manager